British Labor Head, Gaitskill Dies at 56

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskill, potentially Britain's next prime minister, died Friday night just when he appeared to be on the threshold of a political triumph.

Gaitskill's death at 56 came in the middle of the most serious governmental crisis since Suez. As opposition leader Gaitskill automatically would have become prime minister if the Laborites won forthcoming elections.

He died after two weeks' illness. A virus infection surrounding his heart and lungs was complicated by a kidney ailment.

His passing came when Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's cabinet was deeply pessimistic over Britain's chances of joining the flourishing European Common Market.

Gaitskill had warned Macmillan against the Common Market. Had he lived, Gaitskill's prestige as a national leader would never have been higher.

His death bequeathed to the Labor party, which he led through seven years of factional strife, the enormous task of choosing a successor. Four candidates have been mentioned prominently. The party could be split by a struggle over the succession.

The death also could bring a general election nearer.

Macmillan is able to pick any time before October 1964, to call an election. The longer he waits, the more chance the Laborites will have to recover from their loss.

But the Conservative government's political stock is low now because of rising unemployment, defense policy switches and a series of international setbacks.

Fiscal expert James Callaghan and home affairs specialist Patrick Gordon Walker were seen as compromise candidates from the party's middle-of-the-road bloc.

$5 Billion for Foreign Aid Asked

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked Congress today for nearly $5 billion in foreign aid money, declaring it would bolster U.S. security while helping nations that are willing to help themselves.

Last year he requested about the same amount and got about $1 billion less.

In his budget message, the President estimated that actual foreign aid expenditures for the fiscal year starting July 1 will total $3.75 billion—a drop of $100 million from the current fiscal year. The remaining $1.25 billion would be kept in reserve for aid programs on which bills do not become due this fiscal year.

The reason for the $100 million drop: a $200 million boost in economic assistance will be more than offset by a $300 million cut-back in overseas arms deliveries which hit a peak this year.

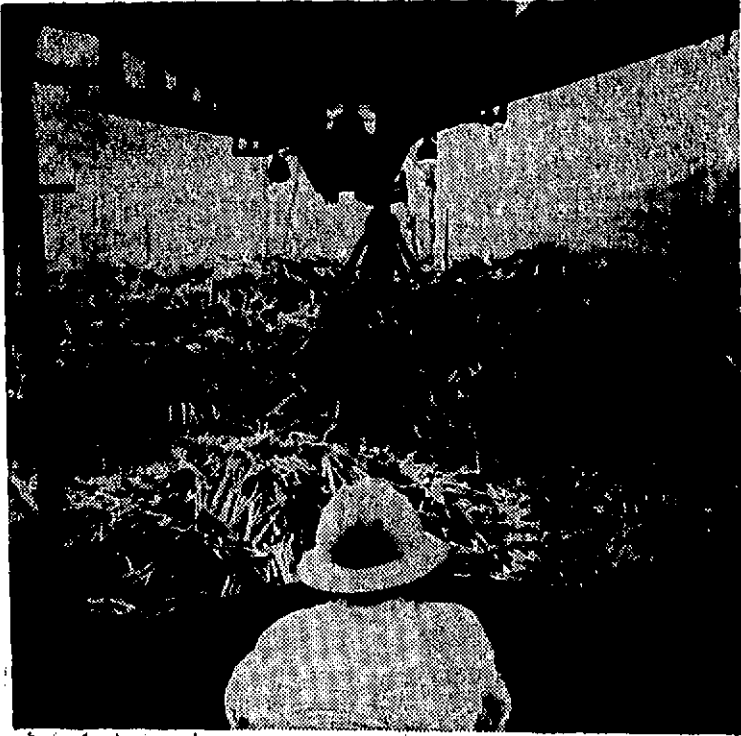

Focusing on selective aid to self-helping, developing countries which can make the most use of it, Kennedy said bigger outlays for economic development loans and $1 billion for the Alliance for Progress program for Latin America will be accompanied by a decline in outright grants, or gifts.

The President's $4,945,000,000 budget requests for fiscal year 1964—$3,465,000,000 in economic aid and $1,480,000,000 in military assistance—sounded the opening going in what is expected to be another round in the annual executive-legislative tussles over the politically unpopular program.

The message did not give a breakdown on how much any particular country will get.

Many Ways to Look at a Tax Cut

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tax cut might seem right next to motherhood in popularity. President Kennedy has proposed one, even while the government runs in the red.

Economically, it might do good. Politically it looks wonderful. It's the kind of thing you'd expect voters to remember gratefully if Kennedy ran for re-election in 1964. Nobody, including Kennedy, has said he won't.

It doesn't always work. Sometimes voters get picky. Sometimes they seem to be saying: "Yes, but what have you done for me lately?" That's what happened not long ago.

It was in 1954, the last year the Republicans ran Congress. It put through a whopping tax cut that year. Then, in the 1954 elections, the voters took control of Congress from the Republicans, gave it to the Democrats.

They haven't given it back to the Republicans since.

So even a tax cut this year—and even a guarantee of more cuts in 1964 and 1965—isn't full insurance on Kennedy's re-election. He may have to depend far more on his all-around performance than just a nice break for taxpayers.

Thursday he proposed for next year a budget of $98.8 billion, would be a spending record for peacetime and any time. But the also said he expects revenue to be only $86.9 billion, a deficit of $11.9 billion.

Thus, at the very moment he expects the country to be deep in the red, he talks of cutting taxes. How does he justify it?

The economy has been lagging. There's not much argument on that. He wants to pep it up. He thinks it will get pepped up, through a tax cut, the public and business have more money to spend and invest.

By this reasoning—with more factories running, more people employed, and more money being earned and spent—the economy goes up. This eventually means more revenue for the government. And—the higher the revenue, the less the red.

While conservatives may dispute this, and there are a lot of them in Congress, the chances look good Congress will cut taxes somehow. He'll give Congress his detailed tax plan later.

So the howls of pain from the conservatives of both parties in Congress Thursday—after he presented his budget—couldn't have surprised Kennedy and certainly not the howlers, since they knew just about what he'd say and propose.

Those were opening shots. There'll be more the rest of the year. A number of things will be chopped off of Kennedy's program in a noisy hurry and a number will be shoved back in a quiet hurry.

But what seems doomed are some of the social welfare programs that Kennedy talked so much about in the 1960 campaign and since. For instance: federal aid to education and medical care for the aged.

The forgotten or abandoned social programs will be held against Kennedy by liberals and individuals or groups who might have benefited from this or that one.

But in the end they will have to judge him and his total performance against his opponent in 1964—whoever that is. It's on this total performance, his all-around popularity, that Kennedy seems to be staking his future.

Space Goal May Cost U.S. Less

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American space goal of "to the moon or bust" in this decade may cost a lot less than originally figured, says the U.S. space agency chief.

At a news conference Thursday, James E. Webb put the cost at under $20 billion—compared with previous estimates of $20 billion to $40 billion.

Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, also said his agency's mounting budget requests should level off at about $6 billion in 1967 unless Russia springs some surprises.

In the new budget, NASA plans to spend $4.2 billion in fiscal 1964.

Convinced Reds Admired Only Strength

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The time was 1946. In an almost giddy rush the United States was dismantling its wartime armaments. It was enough to make a man like Winston Churchill shudder.

He was 72 then and at Fulton, Mo., in a speech whose wisdom it took years to learn, he said he was convinced the Russians admired nothing so much as strength.

But the United States didn't get the point until the cold war began. It began the rebuilding slowly in a new world of weapons; nuclear warheads on weapons. Without warheads the missiles are hardly more than arrows.

Time was needed; and money and science but above all a determination not to be overwhelmed in a "trial of strength."

Through the Eisenhower years there was worry the Russians were ahead. Democrats talked of a missile gap. President Kennedy in the 1960 campaign mentioned a missile gap at least five times.

Eisenhower, who knew better than Kennedy then, was unshaken. In his last State of the Union message to Congress Jan. 12, 1961, he recalled some history, reassured his countrymen on their power.

"No guided ballistic missiles were operational at the beginning of 1953," he said, but now "the explosive power of our weapons system for all purposes is almost inconceivable."

It had to be assumed for the missiles to mean anything, that each one had its nuclear warhead. Neither Eisenhower nor anyone else in this country, before or since, has given total figures on missiles or warheads.

Even after Eisenhower's farewell reassurance there were doubts. The Democratic talk of missile gaps had cut deep, left a biting question: No matter how much we had, were the Russians ahead?

The first one in the Kennedy administration to suggest the missile gap was a myth was Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara at a news conference Feb. 6, 1961, just shortly after he took office.

Kennedy two days later at a news conference toned down the McNamara talk, said the Defense Department hadn't yet finished a study which could say, one way or the other, whether there was a missile gap.

But in a few months doubt was swept away when McNamara's deputy secretary, Roswell L. Gilpatrick, on Oct. 21, 1961, at Hot Springs, Va., told the world: "Soviet bluster and threats of rocket attacks must be evaluated against the hard facts of United States nuclear superiority."

"The fact is that this nation has a nuclear retaliatory force of such lethal power that an enemy move which brought it into play would be an act of self-destruction."

He put the number of "delivery vehicles"—missiles, intercontinental bombers, polaris submarines, overseas bases—in "tens of thousands."

It still wasn't an exact figure. But it was the closest any official had come to indicating the total of nuclear warheads. Probably no one knew better what Gilpatrick was talking about than Premier Khrushchev.

Wednesday in East Berlin he told the world the United States has 40,000 nuclear warheads enough "to kill 700 or 800 million people. Countries would be wiped out. Would socialism win by a thermo-nuclear war? No."

He sounded impressed, was no longer belligerent. It indicated that Churchill 16 years ago understood the human mind well, including the Russian.

U.S. Racial Suits in South Face Resistance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Justice department suits seeking racial integration of schools attended by federal employees' children in three Southern states have met strong resistance from Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who readied his state for an all-out battle.

Wallace called the suits a prime example of the federal government "taking hard-earned money from the pocketbooks of Alabamians and threatening them" with a loss of federal funds.

He called upon Alabama senators and congressmen "to resist this new assault" with every legislative weapon they have, and he asked the people of the state to oppose the suits which he said would destroy their traditions and customs.

Four separate suits, filed Friday in U.S. district courts in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, contend segregation of children of servicemen and other federal workers in four federally impacted counties violates the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and harms the morale of servicemen and civilian workers.

Similar suits were held up in three Georgia counties because the Justice Department said the possibility remained of reaching an agreement on a local level. The Georgia cities involved are Columbus, Savannah and Albany, each the site of a major military installation.

Suits were filed at: Birmingham, Ala., involving Redstone Arsenal in Madison County, which employs 3,370 servicemen and women and 19,000 civilians; Mobile, Ala., involving Brookley Air Force Base in Mobile County where there are 987 military personnel and 15,441 civilian employees; Jackson, Miss., involving Keesler AFB in Harrison County which has about 25,225 military personnel and 2,590 civilians, and Shreveport, La., involving Barksdale AFB in Bossier Parish (County) which employs about 8,000 military and 790 civilian personnel.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the government has a direct interest in seeking an end to "unconstitutional school segregation in the areas because government employees and money are involved."

Kennedy said that the government is not telling the school districts to "desegregate or the government will take its money away."

The government, under a program begun in 1950, provides funds to school districts where large numbers of children of servicemen or other federal employees attend because their parents work at federal installations nearby.

School for Sheriff's Endorsed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Sheriff's Association endorsed Thursday establishment of a police school to serve all law enforcement agencies in the state.

The school would be supervised by the state police and would operate five or six months each year.

Conway County Sheriff Marlin Hawkins said the school would cost $25,000 to $30,000 a year to operate. Hawkins reported on the project to the association's executive committee.

The school could be set up with a one-line appropriation in a legislative bill, Hawkins said, by budgeting funds to the state police especially designated for the school.

Hawkins said Hardison Hall, a building on top of Mount Pelit Jean in northwest Arkansas could be used for the school. That structure is owned by the state Parks and Publicity Commission, he said.

Roy K. Moore, special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Little Rock, said the FBI would support such a school.

Hawkins proposed the school be named the Arkansas Police Training Academy. The only cost to police officers for attending the transportation to classes. Classes would average 30 to 40 students.

Lee County Sheriff Courtney Langston was elected president, succeeding Sheriff Doyle B. Duncan of Calhoun County.

The Association ended its three-day annual convention here Thursday.

Speaking of Dutch Treats -- Hope Is in Store for a Free One Through the Artmobile

By MARY ANITA LASETER

A Dutch Treat is in store for the people of Hope when an art exhibit known as the "Dutch Little Masters" is brought to our town January 24-27.

The Hope Junior Auxiliary is responsible for getting the Artmobile brought here to exhibit original paintings by 14 of the outstanding Dutch artists of the 17th century.

As you probably know, this is the Arkansas Arts Center's Artmobile, and it is visiting many parts of the state with the exhibition lent by Walter P. Chrysler, Jr. from his private collection. The group of paintings entitled "Dutch Little Masters" includes landscapes, still lifes, religious subjects, interiors with people, and architectural subjects.

The 17th century was the "Golden Age" of Dutch painting. During the 16th and 17th centuries many painters from The Netherlands went to Rome. Returning north, they spread Italian influences, which were identified in painting by such features as striking contrasts of light and dark tones; the decorative treatment of landscape, usually with the distance divided into three horizontal color areas parallel to the picture frame; the use of exaggerated gestures; and direct borrowings of motifs from the compositions of leading Italian artists.

With the predominance of Protestantism in the democratic Netherlands, there was not the demand for religious altar-pieces or court paintings as in the Catholic, monarchical countries in Europe. But the 17th century was an era of prosperity for the Dutch.

Shipping and trade flourished and the people of the Netherlands, to whom the home came first, spent their riches on their houses. Artists were overwhelmed with commissions to do paintings small enough to fit the interiors of the Dutch homes. Thus, grew the school of paintings known as the Dutch Little Masters.

On the corner of South Elm and 5th Streets the Arkansas Art Center's Artmobile will be exhibiting these Dutch paintings Thursday, January 24 through Saturday, January 27 from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. On Sunday, January 27 it will be open from 2 to 5 p.m.

Included in the exhibition are "Glory of the Saints" by Bramer; "Interior with Soldiers" by Duck; "Rebekah and Eliezer at the Well" by Fabritius; "Landscape with a Group of Figures" by Large Trees" by Hobbema; "Sentry" by de Hooch; "The Visit" by Metsu; "Winter Scene" by Molenar; "Flora" by Moreelse; "A Woody and Hilly Landscape" by van Ruisdael; "Still Life" by Steen; "A Calm Sea" by van der Velde; the younger; "Church Interior" by van der Vliet; "Portrait of a Man" by van der Vliet; and "The White Goose by Weenix."

DeGaulle, JFK to Air Shaky Atlantic Pact

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Next week's Paris meeting between French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer may bring a new peak of crisis to the shaky Atlantic Alliance.

The French leader has dealt a severe blow to American hopes for uniting Western Europe, including Britain, in close partnership with the United States, U.S. officials say.

Their concern is based on two moves De Gaulle made last week at a news conference.

He virtually slammed the door on British membership in the six-nation European Common Market. He rejected President Kennedy's offer of Polaris missiles to help France build a nuclear striking force under the control of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, in cooperation with British and U.S. forces.

U.S. authorities expect that in his meeting with Adenauer in Paris beginning Monday, De Gaulle will bid for a pact establishing close political, economic and military relations between France and West Germany.

It seems clear that unless De Gaulle and Adenauer agree on some special plan of French-German cooperation, the immediate result of De Gaulle's current maneuvers will be to isolate France within the Atlantic Alliance.

The United States has supported strongly Britain's entry in the Common Market as a step toward broad economic and political unity in Western Europe and a better basis for European partnership with the United States.

The Polaris offer, paralleling a U.S.-British deal concluded last month, also was aimed at promoting military unity within the Atlantic Alliance by diverting France from its announced course of creating its own nuclear striking force.

U.S. officials said Friday night there will be no change in major U.S. policies and no compensating moves by the United States. The Polaris offer to France is still open if the French ever want to change their stand, they said.

The timing of De Gaulle's press conference last Monday is considered by officials here to have been deliberate in two respects—he wanted to wreck British negotiations for entry into the Common Market because they appeared to be on the verge of success, and he wanted to prepare the ground for his meeting with Adenauer.

BOSTON (AP)—Police today said Donald Morris, 15, a 5-foot-9 Negro youth from the Dorchester district, admitted the slaying of Daniela Saunders, 16, in an alley near her Roxbury home Jan. 5. Morris was booked as a delinquent child by reason of murder.

The girl was strangled. Police Commissioner Edmund J. McNamara said the youth told officers the Saunders girl had refused him a kiss.

Mayor John F. Collins issued a statement commending McNamara and his force for their diligence in investigating the girl's death.

Man Answers Loaded With Laughs, Love

(Advance)
Containing all the laugh-provoking elements which are proving to be so popular with the public these days, Universal's Ross Hunter production, "If A Man Answers," opens Sunday at the Seaguer Theatre.

Sandra Dee, Bobby Darin, Michelle Presle, John Lund, Cesar Romero and Stefanie Powers are starred in this riotous Eastman color comedy that is a worthy successor to Hunter's "Pillow Talk," credited with starting the current cycle of romantic comedies.

Miss Dee and Darin, both equally adept at comedy or dramatic characterizations, carry the ball through most of this picture which was adapted from Winifred Wolfe's best-selling novel. They are given a generous assist by the other principals and Henry Levin's skilled direction.

It would be unfair to give away the plot of the film, other than to say that Sandra, aided by her French mother, Michelle Presle, does a job of taming her husband, played by Darin, that could start a revolution among young married couples. Furthermore, she makes him like it.

In the customary Hunter tradition, "If A Man Answers" abounds in gowns and sets that are guaranteed to make any female literally drool as she loses herself in the fast-moving comedy. Just to give you an example, Sandra wears 32 stunning outfits, all created especially for her by that master designer, Jean Louis.

Richard Morris, who hit the literary jackpot by authoring the book for the hit Broadway musical, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," has taken Miss Wolfe's humorous book and developed an even funnier screenplay. Academy Award winning "Spartacus" cameraman Russell Metty has photographed the entire production to give it amazing quality. And the lavish sets were designed by another Oscar winner (also for "Spartacus"), Alexander Golitzen.

Pipeline to Cross Red Near Fulton

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The National Gas Pipeline Co. of Chicago, asked the Arkansas Public Service Commission today to approve the locations at which its pipeline system crosses six Arkansas rivers.

The application was filed in compliance with Act 198 of 1961, which gives the PSC authority to regulate the manner in which any public utility line crosses a navigable river or stream.

The act only requires registration of those lines which were in existence when it was passed and the Chicago firm said all its lines were built prior to 1961.

The firm listed seven crossings: the Arkansas River at Little Rock, the Black River near Potholite, the Ouachita River near Arkadelphia, the Sulphur near Foulke, the Little Red River near Searcy, the Red River near Fulton and the White River near Jacksonport.

Castro Calls for Latin Revolutions

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro today sounded his most aggressive call yet for revolution in Latin America and declared world communism must heal its split to help the masses rise.

"The liberating movement is fighting... in Latin America and this fight needs all the united forces of the Socialist revolution," he shouted in a televised speech which lasted nearly three hours. Castro's call for Communist unity and Latin-American uprisings came as Soviet Premier Khrushchev issued the same appeal for union in a major speech at Berlin, but Khrushchev said socialism's principal task is to seek world peace.

Castro told his audience—mostly women from many Latin nations—its task is to lead the continent in Cuba-style revolutions. "In the world in which the American woman lives, the woman necessarily has to be a revolutionary," he declared.

Cuba, he said, faces a difficult situation.

"In the first place, it is the fundamental target of imperialism," he said. "Second, there are divisions within the socialist camp. I mean that for us the crisis of the Caribbean is not resolved. War is averted but the peace is not won. Our problem today is how to create all we require to satisfy our necessities."

"This is not easy to do with the claws of imperialism over us, with the incessant hostility of the most powerful and aggressive imperialistic nation in the world." But said Castro to prolonged applause, "This Country never will be conquered. And if one day the Yankee imperialists, using all their strength and resources, decide to destroy this country, the most they will be able to do is destroy but not defeat us."

Tax Cutting Plan Starts During July

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Next July 1 is President Kennedy's new target for personal income tax cuts starting his three-year, $13.5 billion tax reduction program, his budget message indicated today.

The retreat from Kennedy's original hope of cuts retroactive to Jan. 1 apparently was forced by the go-slow reaction of key members of Congress. They dislike the lowering deficit that goes along with Kennedy's record $98.8 billion spending schedule.

The legislators' caution, combined with the sheer workload of writing perhaps the most sweeping tax overhaul in history, could result in an even later starting date. Some members of Congress want to wait until Jan. 1, 1964.

That is the date on which Kennedy proposed to begin the second stage of his program—corporate rate cuts, further individual rate reductions, and some of the "reforms" which are supposed to recoup $3.5 billion of the lost revenues.

Such a six-month delay would reduce the near-record deficit of $11.9 billion which the President foresees for fiscal 1964, the government year which starts next July 1.

Nowhere in the message did he state that July 1 is now his target for tax relief. But it was clearly implied in the projected budget estimates, as well as in the omission of any reference to the old Jan. 1 date. Kennedy said merely that some cuts "would start in the calendar year 1963."

The budget assumed very modest business gains this year. Its

QUESTION: How often should you check up on your Social Security account? How do you do this?

ANSWER: The Social Security Administration recommends that you check to be sure your account is correct every three years. The reason for this is that it is easier to catch and correct recent errors than old ones. Also there is a three year statute of limitations which prevents correction of some errors.

Your Texarkana Social Security District Office has a postcard form called "Request for Statement of Earnings," OAR 7004 to use to check up on your Social Security account. Liners Collide, Nobody Hurt

MARSEILLE, France (AP)—The American liner Exeter and the French freighter Josephine le Borgne collided just outside Marseille harbor today. No one was hurt.

The 5,313-ton Exeter, carrying 72 passengers and a crew of 121, was slightly damaged and was expected to continue its voyage to Genoa after 24 hours.

The Josephine le Borgne, with a crew of 29, was more seriously damaged, in the bow. Repairs were expected to take about two weeks.

The Exeter, a liner-freighter, had arrived at Marseille Thursday from the Middle East. She is en route to New York.

525 Flu Cases

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Health Department reported Wednesday that 525 cases of influenza hit Lawrence County between Dec. 1 and Jan. 7. The Division of Communicable Disease Control said the epidemic was countywide. The department said some patients had fever and acute respiratory symptoms.

forecast of $98.9 billion of tax collections was based on an estimated national output of $273 billion. This would be only a $24 billion increase from 1962, smaller than the disappointing gains of the past year.

Personal income will increase $19 billion from last year to a 1963 total of $459 billion, the message predicted, and corporation profits will advance by $2.1 billion to $53 billion.

The production, income and profits estimates are all potential records. But the rate of advance for tax relief, and government economists, to prevent further increases in unemployment.

Kennedy blamed the nation's slow economic growth in part on "the restraining effects of the tax system." Tax reduction now will bring budget surpluses in the future, he argued.

"I know the way I tried was the wrong way," said Matt. "What's this all about, Chief?"

Fairview asked, "Tim said this guy's a private detective."

He didn't believe our checkout system was foolproof," said Clague.

"He found out."

"Where's his card?"

"His card? I suppose it's back on the rack. If he had one."

"Did you look for it?"

Matt reached into his pocket and pulled out his unpunched card. "Here," he said.

Fairview jerked it out of Matt's hand, almost savagely.

"Next time this guy comes through the gate, watch him," said Clague. "He's tricky. Punch Bacon's card, and let these other men go."

"Ain't you going to do nothin'?"

"No. Bacon was hired to do what he's trying to do." Clague turned and went out of the office.

Fairview turned to the time clerk. "Whadda you think of that? The company hired a private dick to see if we're on our toes."

"Dirty trick," said the clerk. "They ain't got no confidence in us. Get out of here, all of you." Fairview turned to Matt. "Punch your card before you leave."

Rispin, Clifford Johnson, Dr. Stroup, Beth Baylor were on the list. Rispin was one of the men who didn't use the time clock. He entered and left through the Administration Building Gate, where an officer raised his hand to his cap and said "Good afternoon."

The others punched the clock even though their positions were important.

But Rispin, a department head, was certainly important enough to be recognized as out of place in the Time Office.

Two other names were on the list. One was a visitor from Oak Ridge, who had chatted briefly with Dr. Pruitt about 1:30 p.m., calling him out of the hot lab.

The call was social and Matt had no reason to doubt the statement. Besides several people had seen Pruitt after that time. The twelfth name was Suzy Stevenson.

Four on the list had positions high enough above the rank and file to have had privileges. But Matt doubted if the privileges extended to punching two time cards or engaging in other hanky-panky.

Susy Stevenson was a question mark. Matt disliked suspecting nice looking women, although he realized that looks had no bearing on guilt or innocence in a murder case, except when it went before a jury.

Susy, the secretary to the general manager, had access to all departments, including the time office. She was certainly a suspect who could not be overlooked.

Not one of the 12 names on his list qualified for a top several of them had acted suspiciously or had opportunity. But he hadn't found the real motive.

Labor Leader in Britain Is Improved

LONDON (AP)—Some improvement in the condition of British Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell was reported today after treatment with an artificial kidney.

However, the bulletin said Gaitskell's heart was showing signs of weakness and he was still "dangerously ill."

A medical bulletin this morning from Middlesex Hospital said: "Mr. Gaitskell was treated with an artificial kidney during the night. This treatment has led to some improvement but the full effect cannot be assessed yet."

"His heart is now showing signs of weakness and he is still dangerously ill."

The 56-year-old leader of Britain's chief opposition party has been in the hospital since Jan. 4 with a mysterious virus infection of the membranes around the lungs and heart. The virus failed to respond to treatment with a variety of antibiotics and spread to the kidneys and intestines.

The artificial kidney was used because Gaitskell's own organs were unable to carry out their normal function of eliminating toxic matter from the blood stream.

Another doctor was added during the night to the team treating Gaitskell, making a total of nine. Including biochemists, laboratory technicians, nurses and doctors, the staff fighting to save his life now numbers more than 40.

Gaitskell was wheeled into the operating room shortly after midnight and the artificial kidney was installed. It was removed at 8:30 a.m. and he was returned to his room.

Space Agency Spending to Be Increased

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—A big boost in spending for the U.S. space agency was recommended today by President Kennedy to blaze a trail for American landing on the moon by this decade's end and put more hustle in the space race.

He asked Congress to approve $4.2 billion for fiscal 1964—$1.8 billion more than in 1963 and more than triple the amount spent in 1962.

"The space programs of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will continue to expand as this nation strives to maintain a position of world leadership in the exploration and utilization of space," Kennedy said.

In addition, the administration sought Congress' okay for $184,880,000 spending by the Atomic Energy Commission for space projects—an increase of some $40.4 million over this year. This would cover a stepped up effort to develop nuclear powered rockets and advanced devices for supplying communications and other satellites with auxiliary nuclear power.

Thus, for all space projects by the two agencies, the administration sought approval for spending $4,384,680,000 in the coming fiscal year, compared with $2,544,449,000 in the current one.

In his budget message to Congress, Kennedy noted that defense spending and the growth in the space program had accounted for the major part of the increase in the budget since his administration took office.

The President added that efforts are being concentrated on the continued development of the complex Apollo spacecraft—the vehicle slated for the lunar mission—and the giant advanced Saturn rocket needed to boost the Apollo to the moon.

He also said the budget provides for strong research efforts aimed at developing the technology needed for advanced space missions "including future manned space flight and unmanned explorations of Venus and Mars."

Declaring the recent Mariner fly-by of the planet Venus proves U.S. progress in unmanned space investigations, the President said that during the coming fiscal year, the development of geophysical, astronomical, meteorological and communications satellites would also continue.

Kennedy recommended spending $2,713,000 for manned space flight, compared with an estimated $1,376,000 for the current year, and $547 million in fiscal 1962.

For unmanned investigations of space spending of $593 million is asked, compared with $441 million this year.

Hole Digging Is Ruled a Protest

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—The Bavaria State Supreme Court has ruled that digging holes in a public park is a legitimate form of protest.

The court canceled 50-mark fines ($12.50) levied against three men who were caught last year digging foxholes in Munich's downtown Maximilian Square.

They said they were ridiculing a government pamphlet recommending ways to survive an atomic blast.

The court said criticism can be expressed by other means than words and that the men were only exercising their right to express an opinion.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Helen: We are an average family living in a small town. Until this year most of our children's teachers were friends and neighbors. As a result everything at school was on a folksy basis and the youngsters got by.

Now the curriculum has changed along with the teachers. All this talk from our government about higher education and physical fitness seems to have everybody on the run. Some are openly rebelling and this is causing quite a disturbance in our community. There is nothing morally wrong with my children but they aren't applying themselves to school work as they should. I hope to help them by home guidance but, since I don't have a high school education myself, I honestly don't know how to go about this.

Frankly, I'm somewhat flighty by nature and flit from one thing to another without ever fully assimilating the subject. Perhaps by concentrating on certain studies along with the children, I can help myself, as well as them.

I would like something better for my family along with the love and harmony they already have. Could you recommend a good book for me to read; one on the art of concentration or training the mind? Also any others you think helpful in this situation? —A Very Concerned Parent.

Dear Very Concerned: My former husband, the late John Erskine, wrote a book which I think would be very useful to you, called "The Completed Life." It is still in print.

He believed that life should be lived rather than watched from the sidelines. He said that knowledge was more easily acquired if we intended to use it. To quote, "Anything studied for use expands outwardly until it touches many aspects of society and human nature... Automobiles may carry us around, but someone must drive them."

If our attitude to an automobile is the passive one of freight... we may think of our own affairs and not notice the machine nor appreciate the landscape we are jammed through.

The driver, however, will have his mind on the road and all the vehicles he meets. He's likely to carry the map in his head and he takes a lively interest in the gas and oil... still closer at home, the person who cooks the food will know more precisely the economic life of the neighborhood than the person who merely eats it... Study done for the active, rather than contemplative point of view is likely to be complete."

That is why, Dear Concerned Parent, even though you be little your self-education, it is more complete than that of many a college graduate. Your letter shows that you have a superior and open mind and would be entirely qualified to learn even more by studying along with your children.

It is an excellent idea. Concentrate upon interesting them in the cultural things of life; those that build character and stimulate thinking.

Dear Helen: I was married in Reno two years ago. After a month of vainly trying to make things go, I came home. For the sake of everybody concerned I decided to have my baby at home without my husband. A year and a half later, I got the marriage annulled with the help of my father, an attorney.

Life was no longer complicated. I found part time work at night to help support baby and myself. My folks have been wonderful. Now my problems:

I am about to announce my engagement to a wonderful man. Everything is just perfect, with my family liking him as well as his liking me and the baby. The wedding is to be next summer. I do so want to wear a fully white bridal gown and veil. It won't be a big wedding as my father has said the smaller the wedding the more he and will give us as a wedding present. I know that nowadays girls are married in white even though not virgins. And I've always dreamed of the day I could wear a white bridal gown. Would it be wrong for me to do now? Uncertain

Dear Uncertain: Certainly there is nothing wrong in wearing white and having a church wedding, if you wish but—in view of the fact that you were married once and have a child, it would be a little ridiculous. Whether you recognize it or not this is your second marriage. A small wedding and pretty short-skirted afternoon gown in a light color would be far more appropriate. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope for my leaflets "The Ideal Wife" and "The Ideal Husband."

ARA Eligibility
WASHINGTON (AP)—Boone, Hot Spring, Jackson, Pope, White and Yell Counties have been designated as eligible to participate in the Area Redevelopment Administration program because of low family or farm income or substantial unemployment, the ARA said Thursday.

Bobby Darin and Sandra Dee star in "IF A MAN ANSWERS" with John Lund, Micheline Presle, Cesar Romero and Stefanie Powers. She was so Boston in public and French in private. Don't miss what happens when she gets them mixed up.

Starts Tuesday at Saenger

"THE CHAPMAN REPORT" Stars Shelly Winters, Jane Fonda, Claire Bloom, Glynnis Johns and Efrom Zimbalist Jr. in the personal story behind a sex survey... from the controversial best-selling novel.

FELINE FINERY — Scandinavian furrier introduced matching ocelot hat and coat at a London showing.

Mr. Truman Undergoes Operation

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman underwent surgery for a hernia today.

A spokesman for Research Hospital described the surgery as "a routine operation for hernia repair."

The rupture was reported on the right side of the abdomen. Truman, 78, went into surgery shortly before 8 a.m. and was taken to the recovery room at 9:55 a.m.

The hospital said there were no complications in connection with the operation and that the former president was in a satisfactory condition.

Truman was expected to remain in the recovery room until 3 p.m.

Mrs. Truman arrived at the hospital early this morning and waited in the president's room during the operation.

Although there were no previous reports about the former president having a hernia, physicians said they had known about it.

Truman appeared in good spirits when he walked into the hospital.

Gives Berlin Campaign a Lively Issue

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev's invitation to Mayor Willy Brandt to talk with him has given West Berlin's dull city election campaign a lively issue. Both Brandt's Socialists and the opposition Christian Democrats are going to try to make political capital out of it.

The Soviet leader invited Brandt Thursday to cross the Berlin wall for a talk on the future of the cold war outpost city. Brandt turned him down, at least for the moment, "with great regret."

Brandt's refusal was forced by the Christian Democrats, the junior partners in the coalition that rules the city. The mayor said that neither the Western occupation authorities nor West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer objected to his meeting Khrushchev. "I had the impression," Brandt told a news conference, "that I made a decision against something which objectively I consider necessary."

Now he will tell the voters that the Christian Democrats forced him to miss a chance to make it easier for West Berliners to cross the wall for visits to friends and relatives in the East.

The Christian Democrats will argue that it was wrong of Brandt to even consider talks with Khrushchev—if only because it would enable the Communists to o'clock p.m.

A cordial invitation is extended to all citizens in this area to attend. The program that will be presented is interesting and very informative. Parents having teenage children are urged to be present.

Saratoga Girls Blast Hope Out of Meet

By CARTER HARDAGE

Last night in the Saratoga Invitational Tournament, Hope's Lady Cats were ousted 31-24 by Saratoga. Hope did manage to lead 9-7 after the Quarter, but dropped behind 17-15 at the Half. Hope's Ladies didn't do too hot in the Third Quarter, and weren't able to score, so Saratoga added to their lead 24-15. The Lady Cats gained, but not nearly enough, and fell 31-24.

Shirley Smith was high for Hope with 19 points. Janice Lloyd and Annette Hatfield scored two a piece, while Carolyn Hatfield made 1. Arnold racked up 11 for Saratoga.

Tonight Hope's Junior and Senior Boys travel to Magnolia for a pair of Conference games. Also correcting the mistake in yesterday's article, the Junior Boys did not forfeit at Emmet. The second team will go to Emmet, while the first team goes to Magnolia.

say that he was already acting like the head of a "free city of West Berlin." The West has emphatically rejected the Communist idea of such a "free city."

West Berlin's voters go to the polls Feb. 17 to elect the city's 133-member house of representatives. Brandt's Socialists are expected to retain their majority 133-member house of representatives.

Cotton Plant City Hall Burns

COTTON PLANT, Ark. (AP)—The Cotton Plant City Hall and two fire trucks were destroyed by fire early today. Damage was estimated at more than $80,000 by Fire Chief Lonnie Crawford.

Cause of the fire was not determined. The building also contained the city library and state revenue office.

Records from the revenue office and fire department were saved. The one-story frame building once was the Rock Island Railroad Depot. The city bought it several years ago.

The fire trucks destroyed were a pumper and a hose truck.

There was no one in the building when the fire broke out. Night watchman Jeff Davis discovered the fire and called members of the volunteer fire department 12 of the 18 members answered the call but the building was burning when they opened the doors and tried to get the trucks.

The Brinkley Fire Department helped fight the fire and offered to loan a fire truck. Little Rock also offered to loan a truck.

Is The Lord Our God

In all the world no monument is more famous than Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty. Standing on an isle in New York harbor, it is the symbol of a nation that enjoys the ultimate in political and religious freedom. It is our Americanism landmark.

Since 1886, the towering statue has been the first welcoming beacon for countless thousands coming to these shores to find a better life... The life of Liberty, of Freedom, the American way. The inscription on its base carries a potent message of promise as significant as the monument itself:

"Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free.
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore.
Send these, the homeless, the tempest-tost, to me:
I lift my lamp beside the golden door."
Then, if we have in the past, may we never again take Liberty for granted... it wears a price tag.
